

Chemical Resistance

Our testing is conducted in a controlled test environment. It may not correlate with facility use conditions, as it is difficult to duplicate the effect of multiple cleanings per day over a period of several years. Cleaning methods & protocols, direct exposure to heat and sunlight along with how the furniture is being used, create variables that could affect performance over time. The cleaning agent supplier should be consulted to determine appropriateness for specific applications. All cleaning label instructions and precautions should be followed.

Therefore, this chart is only a reference guide for the selection of appropriate cleaning products. It is not a recommendation, or approval, for any specific cleaner or cleaning method. We offer these results along with our assurance that the formulation of EnviroLeather™ exhibits superior chemical resistance compared to most faux leathers and has proven to hold up well in 99% of applications.
